

It has been brought to my attention that the FCC is considering allowing telemarketers to harrass Hoosiers once again. (proceeding, 02-278). Here in Indiana there is a "no call list" to stop telemarketers from contacting consumers at home. I am in favor of the "No Call List" here in Indiana. Before there was a list almost every call I received, at home, was a telemarketer. I found this offensive and quite annoying. It's no different than having salespeople running up to you on a street corner and shoving sales material in your face. I repeat, I am strongly opposed to telemarketers contacting me at home and I know I am not alone on this. Thank you for reading this comment.
